Woodland Heights celebrates their volunteers with special luncheon

Friday, April 8, 2011(Lufkin, TX) – Booker T. Washington once said, “A volunteer is a person who is a light to others, being aware of another’s needs and doing something about it.” On Wednesday, April 13, Woodland Heights Medical Center will recognize these dedicated men and women by hosting a Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon, during which hospital volunteers will be celebrated for their time, service and dedication. Volunteers will also enjoy entertainment provided by members of the Diboll High School Band.

“Volunteers do more than just help, they inspire by example,” said Casey Robertson, Chief Executive Officer of Woodland Heights Medical Center. “Our volunteers add a special dimension of personal service and care; they provide comfort to patients and family members, as well as provide service and support to hospital staff.”

Volunteers play a critical role in hospitals across the country, compassionately supplementing the services that staff provides for patients, their families and guests. Currently, Woodland Heights Medical Center has over 40 adult volunteers who donate thousands of hours annually.

Please join us as we say “thank you” to the ones that don’t always have time, but always have the heart.
